WILLIAM GREEN, President

Employers Say System Against Unionists Denounced by Green

A. F. of L. Head Urges Enactment of Wagner Labor Relations Bill, With Its Collective Bargaining Guarantees to Protect Workers from Intimidation by Steel Pioneers.

By A. F. of L. News Service.
The extent to which the steel industry has used its power to intimidate workers and carry on usual union practice is emphasized by the fact that the American Federation of Labor, in its statement before the Senate committee on Labor and Labor of the United States, urging the prompt enactment of the Wagner Labor Relations bill, which undertakes to establish beyond a doubt the right of the workers to organize and to bargain collectively without interference from employers.

Mr. Green said:
In their attempt to interfere with and prevent the organization of their workers, employers have resorted to espionage systems and have employed spies to such an extent that workers are afraid to talk to the men who work next to them.

Kind of Spy System
"Many companies have spy systems on their premises and are paid to receive immediate reports on any employee who has been seen in the company's employ."

"There are two kinds of spy systems. In one an employer pays an agency to do his spying for him. The agency then employs men who are paid to spy on the workers in the plant, where they are in contact with the workers and profess interest in the union, and in many cases it is the workers who are the spies. They join any union which they are started in and attend meetings and report on those used."

Foremen and Straw Bosses Used
"If the employer does not retain an agency to do his spying for him, he uses foremen and straw bosses, who are paid to spy on the workers and report on them to the employer."

Seek to Break Up Unions
"The Charles Pfizer & Company, Inc., in hearing before the National Labor Relations Board, admitted that the company had an espionage system for the purpose of breaking up the union. We know that many other companies have similar systems."

"The report made last week determined that widespread use of this system has been in this industry. We have concrete evidence that this system has been in this industry for many years and that it is still being used."

Widespread in Automobile Industry
"The automobile industry is a case in point. The National Labor Relations Board has found evidence of widespread use of this system in the automobile industry."

ANN ARBOR PUBLISHER CHISELS GRAPHIC ARTS CODE WAGES AND HOURS

By A. F. of L. News Service.
The Ann Arbor, Mich., Longhollowing the work week of his employees from 40 to 48 hours, the publisher of the Ann Arbor Free Press, to receive an annuity of $10,000 a year for the business last year, and to guard against future loss.

The scheme boasts the hours in the plant eight hours a day and cuts the wages 20 per cent below the code minimum. Because of his anti-union principles, Ann Arbor Typographical Union terminated its agreement with him.

According to Harry H. Bollen, secretary of the Ann Arbor Trades and Labor Council, most of the printing for the University of Michigan is done by the Ann Arbor Typographical Union. The union would not be introduced in State where it was taking on a new contract away from Wilson and urged that union members throughout the State be urged to support the measure.

Church Leaders Back Wagner Labor Bill

Collective Bargaining Held Necessary for Workers—Majority Role Approved—Wage Increases and Hours Cut Are Essential to Provide Buying Power for Masses and Jobs for Millions of Idle.

By A. F. of L. News Service.
Washington.—A strong endorsement of the Wagner Labor Relations Bill was presented to the Senate Committee on Education and Labor by three outstanding leaders of the Catholic and welfare departments of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths.

The views were set forth in a joint statement signed by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John A. Ryan, director of the department of social action of the National Catholic Welfare Conference; Rabbi Isaac M. Wise, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis; and the Rev. James H. McHugh, secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

All three of the spokesmen declared that the welfare of the United States and abroad had been advanced by the effective organization of labor and its power to bargain collectively.

Mr. Ryan said:
The Catholic Church has long been a strong supporter of the economic and social reforms which are necessary for the welfare of the people."

Mr. Wise said:
The Jewish people have long been a strong supporter of the economic and social reforms which are necessary for the welfare of the people."

Mr. McHugh said:
